Iowa State Wobble Championships are held at the permanent home wobble shoot grounds at the Stockdale Gun Club west of Ackley.

This year will be the 7th running of the spring event. The state wobble shoot brings together the non-registered of any clay target shooting format, including skeet and sporting clay, to a friendly competition shooting at some of the hardest thrown targets in trapshooting history. All competing against shooters of their own ability.

Shooting along side of the novice contestant can be the most seasoned of competitive shooter from a multi-state area. They come from all walks of life to test themselves against the target. Some targets barely clear the traphouse and others fly next to straight up. The angles are so sharp you could find yourself in a spin after the shot.

There are many shooters returning for that chance at a third win in an Iowa state championship event, shooting themselves in to the Iowa Wobble Hall-of-Fame. Pressure is high but the target costs are low for this award rich event.

Don't become discouraged at a low score because low score are winning scores at the Iowa State Wobble state shoot. Call pull to find out if the trap god is smiling and your shot will find it's way to a championship winning target. Come and shoot. There is not another event held anywhere like this.
